CURRENT LOOK AT EVENTS IN "SERBIA" IS SPEAKERS SUBJECT

On Tuesday, May 23, Dr. Elizabeth Hostetler, Professor of Education at Bluffton College and Founder and Director of the Lion and the Lamb Peace Center, will give a lecture/slide presentation describing her recent trip to SERBIA. The program will take place at noon in Reed Hall room 160.

In May 1994, Dr. Hostetler planned and directed a 5 day workshop for people hired to work for the Soros Yugoslavia Foundation in their Soros clubs and camps for children. The purpose of the workshop was to promote peace through experiences in conflict management, exploring the positive aspects of diversity, and building self-esteem and community. In turn, the participants were to be able to use the ideas in their work with children, both refugee and non-refugee. The group that attended represented many ethnic groups: Croats Bosnians, Montenegrans, Serbians and Albanians. The workshops used the arts -- drama, visual arts, music, and literature -- as vehicles for teaching.

Dr. Hostetler was invited back this year to continue her work, using children's literature to help children work through the difficulties they are facing. She will have an up-to-date report on the situation in this war torn country to present.

Dr. Hostetler is the recipient of many humanitarian awards for her work including a major grant from Honda of America, the 1994 Maumee Valley Presbytery Peace Award, the 1993 American Library Association Peace Award, the Appleseed Ridge Girl Scouts Golden Paradigm Award, and the 1992 Ameritech Partnership Award. In 1989 she was the recipient of the Martha Holden Jennings Foundation Distinguished Educators Award.

STUDENT ART EXHIBIT OPENS

The Sixth Annual Juried Student Art Show opened with a reception and awards ceremony on Sunday, May 21 in Reed Hall Room 160.

Skip Grumblis' moody landscape "Fence Row" took "BEST OF SHOW" honors. The expressionist scene, painted in shades of lavender and green, features thunderous rainclouds lingering over the rural landscape.

Matt Davison's multi-media construction, "An Opinion", using money, metal, and a mask, won the First Prize Award. Christine Spring was awarded Second Prize for her pen and ink creation "The Secret Garden" and also an Honorable Mention for her moving homage to "The Children of the Holocaust." The Cultural Affairs Awards were won by Kahori Sako for a pen and ink sketch of "Things In My Room" and to Danielle Dalton for an abstract pastel titled "Colored Nightmare." Also winning Honorable Mention Awards were: Andy Moser, Megan Heller, Jeff Stemen, and Skip Grumblis.

The exhibition will continue through Sunday, June 4 in Reed Hall Room 160.

IMPORTANT NOTES

THANKS TO ALL WHO HELPED

A BIG thank you to all the volunteers who helped make "Break-the-Silence" Week a success ----- students who painted the T-Shirts, members of the panel discussions, contributing organizations, and all the many willing workers who passed out information. Together we can inform and educate women and men about this growing menace to the American family ---and put an end to Domestic Violence .

LOOKING FOR A CAMPUS JOB? - Lima Technical College is looking for 14 Student Assistants to help with 3 Summer Orientations. You must be available to work on July 10, August 7, and August 28 from 4:00-10:00 pm. The only qualifications needed are that you must be an LTC student with a GPA of 3.0 or higher. A friendly personality helps! The pay is $4.85 per hour and the job may lead to further employment. See Lori Peters in the LTC Admissions Office for an interview.

WORK-STUDY AND "FOR WAGES" CAMPUS JOBS AVAILABLE - Ohio State University Lima or Lima Technical College students interested in working on campus should fill out a STUDENT EMPLOYMENT APPLICATION in the Office of Financial Aid in the Public Services Building, room 120, as soon as possible.

OSU NEEDS STUDENT ASSISTANTS - Be a part from the start! Student assistants are needed to give Campus Tours to prospective students. The pay is $4.85 per hour. Start summer quarter and continue through the year. See Marissa Christoff-Snyder in the OSU Admissions Office.

PRE-MED WORKSHOP WEDNESDAY - Pre-Med students are encouraged to attend a Pre-Med Workshop with Tom Davenport from the OSU Columbus College of Arts and Sciences that will be held on Wednesday, May 24 from 2-5 in the Public Services Building, Room 107.
